Sample of Ingalls' Satire.

Many years ago, when Senator Ingalls was in the senate, oleomargarine was a bone of contention. The debate led Ingalls to utter one of those epigrammatic sentences which made him famous. "I have never, to my knowledge, tasted oleomargarine," said Ingalls, "but I have stood in the presence of genuine butter with awe for its strength and reverence for its antiquity."

Some time ago a Mexican stepped into a Herington grocery store and was very wrathful when he discovered that some other Mexican had been getting groceries charged to him, relates the Herington Sun. Not Entirely Biblical.

When the Bible was translated into Japanese an equivalent to the word "baptize" could not be found, and the word "soak" had to be used instead. So that Japanese biblical students are acquainted with a person named "John the Soaker" and with a doctrine of "soaking for remission of sins."

WHOLE TOWN UNDER ARREST

Legal Proceedings Will Cost Port Erin, in the Isle of Man, a Considerable Sum of Money.

The town of Port Erin, in the Isle of Man, was placed in a curious situation the other day when the town was put under arrest for failure to satisfy an execution for £2,350. Many years ago the high bailiff of Peel agreed with the Port Erin commissioners for the purchase by them of a property overlooking the bay. The new body of commissioners refused to complete the purchase. The high bailiff sued for a specific performance. Judgment was given against him. On an appeal to the privy council the matter was remitted to the judge, who made decree in favor of the high bailiff. Lord Raglan having refused to accept a motion in the house of keys voting £1,000 from the revenue in aid of the Port Erin commissioners, a constitutional deadlock arose between the two branches of the legislature. Tynwald cut the knot by empowering Port Erin to borrow the necessary money, to be spread over 25 years. Port Erin commissioners failed to raise the money promptly, hence the arrest. All properties, moneys and rights in rates have been arrested, and the obligations incurred will involve a rate of several shillings on the town.

PRISONERS KEEP THEIR NAMES.

No more ridiculous statement appears in the press than that a man in prison is known by his number and not by his name, according to the Outlook. The numbers are serial; those at Sing Sing are now over 60,000, those at Auburn over 31,000 and those at Clinton over 10,000. Imagine how cumbersome it would be to employ such numbers as names! The guards would be candidates for a madhouse if such a task were theirs. John Jones remains John Jones throughout his prison experience and only knows he has a number when he has business with the administration officers, when the number is used, in addition to the name, as a further means of identification.

NARROW, SAD FUTURE.

Senator La Follette pointed out, in an interview in Madison, the restricted future that confronts the young man of today, thanks to the trusts.

"Barred out of everything by these all-powerful combinations," he said, "the young man of today is in as pathetic a position as the young seal that asked its mother: 'Mamma, when I grow up, what do you think I'll be—a saque, a boa, a mull or a box of humble cartons?'"

Dread Of An Operation.

N. Manchester, Ind.—Mrs. Eva Bashore, of this place, says: "I suffered female misery of every description. Two doctors attended me, and advised an operation. I lost weight until I weighed only ninety pounds. I dreaded an operation, and, instead, began to take Cardui. In a short time I gained 25 pounds, and feel as well as I ever did. Cardui, I am sure, saved my life." Cardui is today used in thousands of homes, where it relieves pain and brings back strength and ambition. It is a woman's medicine, for woman's ailments, and you are urged to try it for your troubles. Ask your druggist. He will tell you about Cardui.

GOLD IN VALDEZ.

Thousands of gold seekers who joined in the mad rush to the Klondike hurried over ground containing that very treasure which they expected to find at the end of their journey. Many of these gold seekers, indeed, must have passed in sight of the quartz vein near the Valdez glacier which 12 years later was developed into what is now known as the Cliff mine. This vein has averaged about $50 a ton, mostly in free gold, with little change in depth, the concentrates running about 7 per cent and carrying about $100 worth of gold to the ton, according to a report of the United States geological survey. This is probably a fair measure of the gold content of the ores of the district, though many property owners report contents ranging from $75 to $200, or even higher.

The Cliff mine became productive in 1910 and proved to be very profitable. Its success greatly stimulated prospecting by local miners and also attracted the attention of non-residents, who quickly recognized the possibility of developing here a new mining district. As a result, several hundred lode claims were staked and considerable development work was undertaken in 1910 and 1911.

At this time Alfred H. Brooks, geologist in charge of the Alaskan work of the United States geological survey, visited the region and made an examination of its possibilities, and his report just issued by the survey, shows that the most encouraging feature of the district is the fact that one lode has been profitably mined to a depth of about 400 feet and for about 500 feet along the strike. So far as can be seen, he states, there are no geologic conditions at the Cliff mine which are not found elsewhere in the region.

The Demons of the Swamps are mosquitos. As they sting they put deadly malaria germs in the blood. Then follow the icy chills and the fires of fever. The appetite flies and the strength fails; also malaria often paves the way for deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters kill and cast out the malaria germs from the blood; give you a fine appetite and renew your strength. "After long suffering," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C. "three bottles drove all the malaria from my system, and I've had good health ever since." Best for all stomach, liver and kidney ills. 50c at all druggists.

Helps A Judge In Bad Fix.

Justice Eli Cherry, of Gillis Mills, Tenn., was plainly worried. A bad sore on his leg had baffled several doctors and long resisted all remedies. "I thought it was a cancer," he wrote. "At last I used Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was completely cured." Cures burns, boils, ulcers, cuts, bruises and piles. 25c at all druggists.

ARRANGING FLOWERS AN ART

And One Which Every Hostess Will Find It to Her Advantage to Learn Thoroughly.

There is probably no branch of woman's work in the home where her personal taste and influence are more immediately recognizable than in the way the floral decoration of the dinner table is carried out when the mistress either undertakes the task herself or sees that the flowers are arranged strictly to her own on the subject. Every woman who wishes to be an ideal hostess should understand the art of arranging flowers.

The successful arranging of flowers is in itself a gift that is to a large extent denied to quite a number of otherwise artistic people. To exhibit the flowers to the very best advantage select those most suitable to the character of the decoration, making the most of the flowers at one's disposal and using the right kind of vases for each particular sort of flower is an art worthy of study by the woman who loves her home and desires it to be as artistic as possible. There are details in a table decoration that to the artistically gifted present few difficulties.

To those, however, who lack the necessary gift all these appear imposing obstacles. There is another class of persons possessing neither taste nor talent, and to these such difficulties are seldom apparent, for the good reason that hardly ever is an attempt made by them to arrange their flowers otherwise than by just putting them in vases on the table; perhaps an eminently wise practice in the circumstances.

NO CAUSE FOR FEAR.

"No," replied Farmer Cornstossel; "why should he be? He don't know anything about how much it costs to run one."

ASK ANY GOTHAMITE.

"Harry, my boy, don't you want to travel abroad? You've never seen the world."

"Why, yes, I have, uncle. I have been to N'Yawk. All the world comes there."

NOT PRESENT.

"Is the man of the house at home?" asked the gentlemanly agent.

"No," replied the maid, "she's gone downtown to circulate a petition."

PINCHES ALL ROUND.

Mrs. Exe—My new dress is certainly fashionable; it is so tight that it pinches me.

Exe—Huh! It doesn't pinch you at all so much as it pinches my pocketbook.
